Disclaimer/Privacy Policy

Hall Estill publishes this website and other business communications material located herein for informational purposes only. This material does not substitute for specific legal advice, may not reflect the most current legal developments and is not intended to create an attorney-client relationship. We ask that you not send us any confidential information or facts about any legal matter via this site as e-mail transmissions are not guaranteed to be secure and there is a risk that your communications may be illegally intercepted.

Communications with Hall Estill via this website or via email do not establish an attorney-client relationship. Until Hall Estill has formally established an attorney-client relationship with you, do not send any confidential information or any information you would expect to be maintained in confidence through this website or through any email address posted on this website as the communication may not be considered privileged. Please also be aware that any communication sent to us by email may be intercepted by third parties who may be under no obligation to keep such communication confidential. Before sending any information, you should contact us to arrange suitable means to protect it.

Employing an attorney is an important matter that should not be based solely upon information provided by a website or advertising. Various information, including attorney biographies, found on this website may include descriptions of successful client representations or outcomes in particular matters, however, the results portrayed are dependent on the facts of the particular matters described, among other variables. The results in any matter will not necessarily be indicative of results obtained in other matters. We intend no assurance and make no guarantee or prediction that we will be successful in new matters, even if they involve similar circumstances. Portions of this website may contain attorney advertising as defined under the rules of some states.

If you wish to seek legal representation from Hall Estill, please call one of our offices. Specific office information may be found in the Contact Us portion of this website. An attorney best suited to handle your matter will then be assigned to you upon completion of our conflict of interest procedure.

In the event that the information on this site is inconsistent with the rules governing communications of legal services in a particular state, Hall Estill is unwilling to assume representation of those clients based on this communication.

Portions of this website may contain attorney advertising under the rules of some states.

Do you use Cookies on your website or collect information about me?
Our website does not use cookies. We do not collect personally identifiable information about you through our website, such as your name, address, telephone number, fax number, e-mail address, IP address, etc.

We do automatically collect certain non-personally identifiable information when you visit our site – such as the type of browser you are using, the type of operating system you are using, and the pages you visit on our site. We use non-personally identifiable information to analyze site usage (such as aggregated information on the pages visited by our users), which allows us to improve the functionality, design and content of our site.

Collection of information by third-party sites

Our site may contain links to other sites whose information practices may be different than ours, including Google Maps, Facebook, LinkedIn, YouTube, Twitter and others. Visitors should consult the other sites' privacy notices, as we have no control over information that is submitted to, or collected by, these third parties.
