Christina Wolfram concentrates her practice in the areas of medical malpractice, dental defense and other personal injury matters. She works to develop strong professional relationships with her clients, as she understands the stress clients endure during litigation, and she strives to keep her clients informed of new developments while making them as active of a participant in their cases as they would like to be.

Christina began her career as an Assistant District Attorney in Tulsa County, Oklahoma, as a felony prosecutor. She handled many types of serious crimes but her focus was on crimes against children including physical abuse, sexual abuse, and child homicide.
