Randy McCarthy of Hall Estill's IP Law Group "My wildest dream would be for Congress to enact a DMCA-type comprehensive copyright law amendment dealing with issues relating to AI. These would include safe harbor provisions for generative AI companies, mechanical-style licenses for the use of publicly available copyrighted material for training purposes, and clear delineation of whether it is enforceable for a copyright owner to provide a EULA-type notice that restricts use of published copyrighted work as training data for an AI model."
